John Wilson

I pri- thee turn that face a way, whose splen- dor but be- nights the day; sad eyes like mine, and wound- ed hearts, shun the bright rays which beau- ty darts; Un wel- come is the sun that pries in- to those shades where sor- row lies: Go shine on hap- py things; to me, that bless- ing is a mi- ser- ie; whom thy fierce sun not warms but burns, like that the soot- y In- dian turns; I'll serve the night, and there con- fin'd; with thee less fair or else more kind.
