

mor che m'ard' e strugg' il cuo- re, fuo- co d'a- mor che m'ard' e strugg' il cuo- re, e

da gli ac- ce- si la- bri un fia- to muo- ve, de si grate pa- ro- le, che più l'ac- cen-de, e fa dol- ce ar- do- re. O

40

che fe- li- ce a- mo- re, via più d'ogn' altr' il mio di fuoc' e ven- to, di

43

fuoc' e ven- to, be- a- to vi- v'a re- mi- rar- v'in- ten-

50

1)

to, be- a- to

55

vi- v'a re- mi- rar- v'in- ten-

to.

1) a in orig.

what I experience and feel in my heart
those who are content would be envious.
A living sun shines in your face, and from your beautiful eyes pours forth a flame of love which burns and consumes my heart.
And from your burning lips a breath moves of such pleasing words that ignites it further and makes sweet passion.
What a love is mine, much happier than any other!
Blessed by fire and wind, it lives intently gazing at you.