

17. If I could shut the gate

John Danyel

5

If I could shut the gate a- gainst my thoughts
 Or were there o- ther rooms with- out my heart
 But, O my Sa- vior who my re- fuge art,

and keep out sor- row from this room with- in, or me-that did not to my con- science join so near, where I let thy dear mer- cies stand twixt them and me, and be mo- ry could can- cel all the notes of my mis- deeds, might lodge the thoughts of sin a- part, that I might not,

 the wall to se- par- ate my heart, so that I may,

of my mis- deeds, and I un- think my sin. How free, how clear, where I might not their clam- 'rous cry- ing hear. What peace, what joy, so that I may at length re- pose me free, that peace and joy

how clean my soul should lie, dis- charg'd of such what ease should I pos- sess, free'd from their horand rest may be with- in, and I re- main a loath- some com- pa- ny, how free, ny. rors that my soul op- press, what peace, press.

 di- vi- ded from my sin, that peace sin.
