

20. Now the earth, the skies, the air John Danyel

Canto 1

G lute

5

10

15

Now the earth, the skies, the air, all things fair, the skies, earth, and air, the earth, skies, air, and all things fair, now the earth, the skies, the air, earth, skies and air, all things fair seems new-borne thoughts t'in- fuse, whilst the re- turn- ing joys each thing, whilst the re- turn- ing spring joys each thing, and blast- ed hopes, blast- ed hopes re- news. When I a- lone, when on- ly I alone, a- lone left to moan, find no times borne, find no times borne for me. No

1)

a

2)

a

flow'rs, no mea- dow, no mea- dow springs, no bird sings, no bird sings but notes of mi- se- ry, but

a

30

notes of mi- se- ry, no flow'rs, no mea- dow springs, no flow'r, no mea- dow springs, no bird sings

a

35

but notes of mi- se- ry, mi- se- ry, no bird sings but notes, but notes of mi- se- ry.

a

1) Note double value in orig.
 2) Note sharped in orig. (G# vs G in tenor)